As a Producer at Ubi MTL, you will oversee the development and timely and on-budget delivery of a quality game based on the order and studio constraints.

What you'll do

Production Management

- Define and present the game development strategy to management.
- Define the scope of the project and main deliverables.
- Suggest a development plan for each platform.
- Draw up and follow the project budget.
- Build the team structure and optimally organize the workloads.
- Decide which compromises should be made between the time, quality, and budget.
- Manage risks and approve the contingency plans.
- Draw up and present the status of the project (project snapshot status - PSS) to management.
- Meet, when necessary, with external collaborators or members of the press to promote the game.
- Negotiate agreements with internal and external suppliers whenever necessary.

Marketing

- Challenge the Brand manager on the product's positioning on the market.
- Gather, analyze, and transmit market information (consumer and stockholder) to the team.

Content

- Challenge and support the creative director in creating the game vision.
- Implement the corporation's management and design methods within the team.
- Challenge the technical and IT teams on the technology choices.
- Suggest technology choices that support game development (tools, engine) to management.
- Ensure that you receive the level of quality that was expected.

Human Resources

- Build the core team.
- Define resource needs and establish a resource plan to be approved by management.
- Supervise and coach team members.
- Carry out performance assessment meetings with team members.
- Validate annual salary reviews for team members.
- Foster and participate in career development with the project's key employees.

What you bring

- A degree in management or business administration (or related training)
- 7-10 years of leadership experience in video game production (or other relevant experience in the multimedia industry)
- In-depth knowledge of AAA game production and operations
- Plenty of flexibility to adapt to whatever production (inevitably) throws your way: you can modify any part of your plans based on the situation
- An inclusive, influential, and inspiring leadership style that allows you to rally people around a vision and engage distributed teams of varying sizes
- A collaborative spirit & relationship-building skills
- The capacity to cast a clear long-term vision and put in place the key milestones to make it a reality

What to send our way

- Your CV highlighting your education, experience, and skills

Just a heads up: If you require a work permit, your eligibility may depend on your education and years of relevant work experience, as required by the government.

Real live people from our team will review your application. In this case, it's our talent acquisition specialists Yara & Eric. As they learn more about you through your profile, get to know them through the videos below.
