Ubisoft Entertainment, a global leader in the video games and entertainment software industry, is currently seeking a full-time Data Operations Manager. This role is integral to our Global Content Creators team, which focuses on influencer marketing.

Your primary responsibility will be building and optimizing data flow, ensuring efficient data processes including verification, enrichment, and reporting. This role is crucial in supporting our data-driven approach.

Ideal candidates should have experience in data-centric roles, effective communication skills, and great attention to details. While an interest in gaming and online influencers is beneficial, the focus is on your data management capabilities. This is a great opportunity to apply your skills in a dynamic and exciting industry.

What you'll do

- Develop and implement data management plans, ensuring data integrity. Work with IT and engineering teams to design data infrastructure and integration processes, including the use of APIs.
- Drive data evolution by partnering with various data teams. Understand and support the creator team's data needs. Standardizing tracking and reporting.
- Maintain data documentation and provide training on data tools and systems to team members and stakeholders.
- Manage relationships with vendors related to data tools and services.
- Keep up to date with industry trends in data management and analytics. Participate in projects by contributing data expertise.

What you'll bring

- Experience: Minimum of 3 years in a data related role, with a proven track record of precision and accuracy.
- Education: Degree in Information Systems, Data Science, Computer Science, or a similar quantitative discipline.
- Technical Proficiency: Skilled in SQL, Python, or R, and familiar with data visualization tools such as Tableau or PowerBI.

- Communication Skills: Excellent at both written and verbal communication, capable of defining business requirements and explaining complex analysis to both business and technical teams.
